After studying Communications and Applied Technology at Drexel, Nikkie Haley started out in digital marketing as a WordPress blogger, Youtuber, freelance web designer and social media manager.

She then began her career in the mortgage industry as a Marketing Coordinator at AnnieMac Home Mortgage, and soon began to expand her role to become an Account Manager for the Recruiting and Renovation divisions.

Looking to further expand her horizons, Nikkie took a position as marketing director with TAM Lending Center.

That required her to develop marketing strategies, do networking events with Branch Managers, and increase business for the entire company which inspired Nikkie to become a Mortgage Loan Originator herself.

As a proud native of Southern New Jersey, Nikkie wanted to help the public by educating them on credit, finances, and the home buying process. In May of 2018, she passed the Uniform State Exam through NMLS, and joined the team at Acre Mortgage & Financial to pursue her career goals. She is now working diligently to build her business and expand her referral base
